- Sharing Qualitative Reflections and its Application along with Realization Breakthroughs in your day-to-day life.

- Pathiks must complete a minimum of two rounds of Japnam daily, while Core Aspiring Servants are required to complete at least eight rounds of Japnam each day.

Dwadashi Pathiks:

- This is Core aspiring servants team as of now being referred to Dwadashi Pathiks. Dwadashi refers to the twelfth lunar day (tithi) of the bright (Shukla) or dark (Krishna) fortnight (Paksha) of every lunar month.
- The Dwadashi team consists of Darshan Chaudhari, Avinash Sharma, Prathamesh Shelar, Abhay Pawar, Venkatesh Kulkarni, Nikhil Jadhav, Gaurav Suryawanshi, Suraj Ganeshpure, Bhavesh Gullapelli and Shashikant Maurya, Aaditi Mishra, Neha Memane.

History – It began with a team of five core aspiring servants, known as the Panch Pyare. This team then expanded to include eight core aspiring servants of Shri Jyotirgamay Hanuman Ji Maharaj, and was named Ashtasiddhi. As the journey continued, the team grew into Navanidhi (a collective of nine core aspiring servants.) It then evolved into Dashmesh (a term signifying the 10th Guru, Sri Guru Gobind Singh Ji, who represents the embodiment of spiritual strength, divine wisdom, and fearless service to humanity). Finally, the team blossomed into a group of twelve core aspiring servants of Shri Jyotirgamay Hanuman Ji Maharaj, now known as the Dwadashi.

Why – To achieve a zero-time leakage state by effectively planning your 24-hour schedule in alignment with your RPK (Ruchi-Prakruti-Kshamta) index and SPPS SMART Goals (Spiritual, Professional, Personal, Social), SMART= Specific, Measurable, Attainable, Realistic, Time bound.

Sharing your evolved RPK index and SPPS SMART goals in the sheet given below
